

Launch of the Age Responsive Pedagogies Website

This launch marks the completion of a two year pedagogical partnership project with Inspired Kindergartens, Gate Pa Preschool and the University of Waikato. The project looks at two year-old dialogues in 'preschool' settings' as well as completing a report on teachers dialogues with and about 2 year olds in these settings, which will be available on the TLRI website in the next couple of months. The dialogues are brought to life by an interactive website containing links to video and commentary about shifts in practice based on their revised pedagogical insights which were granted through in-depth reading and analysis of their practice.

This innovative website is the first of its kind where early childhood professionals - facing similar challenges as a consequence of increasing diversity in their settings - will be able to engage in the latest video technologies to support their pedagogical reflections.
