Waikato Management School, University of Waikato

A one-day conference on the future of work

Former president of Unilever Europe and current CEO of Avon International Jan Zijderveld heads the line-up for this one-day conference that will focus on the future of business from three angles:

Leadership, Innovation, and Sustainability.

Jan, a University of Waikato Distinguished Alumni, has had a 30-year career driving long-term growth initiatives and developing earning opportunities around the world.

Joining Jan will be renowned thinkers and practitioners who will lead discussion about future visions in the world of work, and deliver practical insights into embracing opportunities in a future that needs to address issues such as globalisation, climate change, depleting natural resources, and technology convergence. These will take place in separate masterclasses where challenges of leadership, innovation, and sustainability will be discussed.

If you are in business and want to future-proof, you cannot afford to miss this day.
