

The Tess Embling Memorial Scholarship was established in 2012 to commemorate the spirited life and achievements of Tess Embling. It is funded through donations and annual funding drives coordinated by the School of Science and held in the University of Waikato Foundation.

The Scholarship is designed to encourage and reward students who share the passion and enthusiasm that Tess had for her studies. After establishing a successful career in IT, Tess made a brave move to pursue her love of nature through a science degree at the University of Waikato. Tess's inquisitive mind and never-ending drive to learn were exceptionally valuable in both her course work and research projects. Tess's boundless motivation and hard work inspired many in the University community, and her untimely death from cancer in 2010 was a great loss to science. Tess was a caring and thoughtful person who would be delighted for this Scholarship to support fellow students who are chasing their dreams.
