Program Overview

Future Ready Young leaders

This 3-week International Project Program in Geneva offers students a rare opportunity to blend remote real-world experience with immersive learning at the heart of international diplomacy and innovation. Over two weeks, students will collaborate virtually on a live project aligned with the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The final week is spent on the ground in Geneva, engaging with leading international organizations, exploring global policy, innovation, and sustainability in action, and expanding their global network.

Geneva, home to over 40 international organizations, offers the perfect backdrop for exploring how public policy, business, and global governance intersect. This program is designed to broaden students' global outlook, leadership potential, and understanding of international systems and challenges.

Program Objectives:

- Gain practical global experience through a virtual project aligned with the UN system and SDG priorities.
- Explore multilateral diplomacy and global governance, especially the role of international institutions in shaping global policy and sustainable development.
- Understand international collaboration and innovation through visits to world-leading organizations like CERN and WTO.
- Enhance global career readiness with exposure to careers in international organizations and participation in simulations, challenges, and expert-led sessions.
- Develop cross-cultural awareness through immersive cultural visits and interactions with professionals in Geneva's international ecosystem.

What the Program Covers

Remote UN Project (Weeks 1–2)

- Collaborate remotely in diverse teams on a real-world UN-affiliated project.
- Focus areas may include sustainability, policy innovation, inclusive business or digital transformation aligned with the SDGs.
- Final deliverables will be presented during the Geneva week.

Geneva Week

Why Geneva?

Geneva is more than just a city—it's a platform for global impact. For management students, it offers a living classroom where diplomacy meets business, science meets policy, and local culture meets global dialogue. The exposure to international organizations, innovation centres, and cultural institutions provides a holistic learning experience that prepares students for leadership in a complex and interconnected world.

During the final week, students will participate in a curated set of experiential learning activities designed to expose them to global leadership, innovation, diplomacy, and culture:

Visits to Key International Organisations

- Palais des Nations (UN Office at Geneva): Understand how multilateral diplomacy functions on a global scale.
- WTO, ILO, or WIPO: Engage with institutions shaping international trade, labour standards, and intellectual property—critical areas for business and policy leaders.
- UNITAR (United Nations Institute for Training and Research): Participate in professional development workshops, including a session on multilateral diplomacy and a dedicated UN careers briefing.

Innovation and Science Exposure

CERN (European Organization for Nuclear Research): Gain insight into large-scale scientific collaboration and innovation management. CERN is not only a physics lab but also a model of international project coordination and the birthplace of the World Wide Web—offering lessons in data, leadership, and cross-border innovation.

Cultural and Industry Insights

- Patek Philippe Museum: Explore luxury branding, heritage marketing, and the craftsmanship behind one of the world's most prestigious watchmakers—relevant for those studying brand strategy and global consumer markets.
- Swiss Chocolate Factory Visit: Understand the role of food innovation, Swiss manufacturing excellence, and global supply chain dynamics in a fun and delicious context.
- Cross-border Day Trip to France: Experience the fluidity of European borders and culture, highlighting Geneva's geographic and diplomatic uniqueness.

Interactive Learning Experiences

- Swiss SDG Challenge: Take part in a live innovation challenge focused on sustainable development, where students ideate and pitch real-world solutions tied to the SDGs.
- Sessions on Multilateral Diplomacy and UN Careers: Learn directly from experts about navigating a career in international organizations, building global competencies, and engaging in diplomatic negotiation and advocacy.
- Awards & Reflection Ceremony at UNITAR: Celebrate achievements and reflect on the transformative experience of working and learning in a global context.
